

What is interesting to me is the space outside the frame of language or the point where the mind ceases to hold what the eye feels. It is because of this interest that my attention focuses on windows and rooms - not for what they contain as well as what they exclude.

Room Construction is made from wood, drywall, metal beading and plexiglass.

* * *